

Titans Times

Your weekly source of Information about Titans Valor guild.

Few words from our Fashion Correspondent

Hello everyone, I'm your interior ministerin Soyeon with your ANO fashion update! With the school season approaching, I recently stumbled upon a great idea for a new guild look. With the current trend of academia themed anime and cartoons, I'd love to incorporate this into our ANO guild, creating a Titans Valor academia event! Our stylish, school-like skins for this will be released later this week, following some great potential give aways and such. I hope you all as excited as I am for this brand new skin concept for our guild, I hope to see you all rocking the newest and coolest ANO guild skin variation yet! Stay tuned and remember, fight on titans!

Not a few words from our distinguished yet anonymous correspondent

---

Welcome back everyone, to the segment of Titans Times where some random person gets to talk to all of you about very random things. That's right, it's the Foreign Correspondence, and I am the one who has yet to be unmasked by the masses. The game is still on everyone, and as such, the prize is still for the taking for the first person to figure me out and send my true identity to Pain.

Anyway, enough rambling time for something that may or may not be interesting.

Getting right into the blitzkrieg, let us talk about war, no not any form of current events, but instead a war far into the future, here on Earth and beyond into the solar system, one in which time itself must be overcome to prevent the destruction of humanity, not just once but again and again as the throne of glass is shattered again and again, reforming week after week. We thought we finally destroyed the throne using the power of time against its conflux, but it seems it was only biding its time and it will be back soon, to be shattered again by those who wield the powers to change fate.

Going from a war far into the future on Earth, to medieval times in a world described by those with banners of the dragon and the ones who claimed they were the lords of butter, before being obliterated by all those around them..

Those who have worked to gain lands and loyalty of the men under them, by both paying them on time and keeping them alive and fed, have the strength to siege castle for their liege to repeat the process and gain even more power and prestige, to those who have no lands and have to rely on hunting bandits or being a mercenary to fighting in tournaments for armor to keep them alive, and the men from causing a coup under them. There is not much different between the two men, just one was more fortunate than the other.

Moving on from wars that have yet to happen and that already have happened, there is the group who have created an institute to prevent wars from happening again, on the Fields of Justice, countries send champions to represent them in conflicts that are used to sort out conflicts instead of full scale wars that cause innocents to die. There has been an issue recently though, as the veil between the spirit realm and the mortal realm began to thin, a summoner was lost into the spirit realm, but it is known that they are still alive and have begun to converse with some of the spirits to help them get home. Will they be able to convince the spirits to help them get home, or will they be lost in the spirit realm forever and become a demon that must be slain?

On the Wynn side of things, I have been a slight bit out of the loop, I have spent my time focusing on other things like hunting monsters that control time and preparing for the battle ahead with them, one thing I did hear is that Imperial gave up all of the lands they held in main line Gavel, only keeping hold of a territory in the Durum Isles and Imperial Gate for sentimental reasons. How this will end up shaking up the landscape of wars in both the short and long term is yet to be seen, I do have a feeling however that the power vacuum that has opened up will need to be filled by someone, and the scrambling for that spot will begin very soon..

That's all I have to say for now though, remember to keep your blade sharp and your armor dent free, the major battles may come soon, and you never want to be caught off guard by being unprepared. Let the banners fly high, and do not go into the night quietly.

-----Blacksmith RH

News regarding Top Weekly Statistics

Unfortunately, we won't be able to keep track of our guild member's emerald contributions, xp and wars for some weeks due to an event that occurred within the guild and therefore, we are currently shutting down our Top Weekly Statistics.

The time of the reopening hasn't been confirmed just yet. Until further notice, have a beautiful week.

Quote of the week:

"Truly you guys save my mind some days. Without this complete meaningless diversion of Wynncraft, and the amazing, brilliant, and damn good people I know through gaming, I would go completely crazy."

- Great_Pain

Fun Fact:

Villagers have an average of 13 houses, so just yoink one.

